Bangkok downgrades PV module exports

Overview

What happened to Thailand's Solar Exports in 2024?

Soon, Thailand's solar exports to the US soared. But in June 2024, a two-year US tariff waiver on solar products from Southeast Asia - introduced by Joe Biden to boost solar deployment in the country - came to an end. Companies in the region importing silicon wafers from China to make solar cells for export to the US became subject to tariffs.

Is PV module manufacturing in Southeast Asia under pressure?

Thanks to new data, this edition includes entries such as ICA Solar and United Renewable Energy (URE), reflecting the evolving landscape of PV manufacturing in the region. Despite strong ambitions, PV module manufacturing in Southeast Asian is currently under pressure.

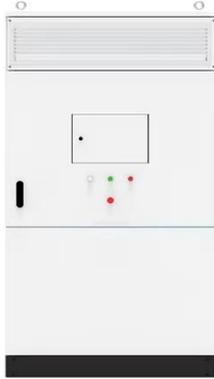

Why is Thailand's solar industry being squeezed?

Large Chinese companies dominate Thailand's solar manufacturing industry, which produces solar cells and panels for export to the US market. But as Washington erects trade barriers to protect its homegrown solar sector from a rising tide of cheap Chinese imports, Thailand's industry is being squeezed.

Will Tariffs Hurt Thailand's solar industry?

Solar manufacturers in Southeast Asia's second-largest economy that rely heavily on Chinese components are now facing nearly 400% tariffs to export their products to the US. Analysts say the tariffs threaten to hurt Thailand's manufacturing sector and its workers, and could have a knock-on impact on solar rollout in the country.
