Overview

Slovenia state-owned utility Dravske elektrarne Maribor (DEM) is planning two battery storage units totalling 60MW co-located with an existing hydroelectric unit, as well as a new pumped hydro energy storage (PHES) plant. What is happening in Slovenia's energy transition?

People and communities in Slovenia's energy transition is emerging strongly. The government and local energy companies are increasingly engaging with communities through consultative processes and collaborative projects that not only address the energy needs but also.

What is the Slovenian energy policy?

The purpose of the measure is to accelerate the deployment of investments in renewable energy production and energy storage, with the aim to foster the transition to a net-zero economy. The Commission found that the Slovenian scheme is in line with the conditions set out in the Temporary Crisis and Transition Framework.

How has Slovenia's energy sector changed over the years?

Changes in its energy strategies. Technological Innovations and Social Integration Slovenia's energy sector has embraced significant technological advancements, including renewable energy integrations and potential expansions in nuclear power.

What does the European Commission's €150 million scheme mean for Slovenia?

The European Commission has approved a €150 million Slovenian scheme to support the rollout of renewable energy and heat as well as energy storage, in line with the Green Deal Industrial Plan.
