User-side energy storage solar container lithium battery in Osaka Japan

Overview

What is Renova-Himeji battery energy storage system?

The Renova-Himeji Battery Energy Storage System is a 15,000kW lithium-ion battery energy storage project located in Himeji, Hyogo, Japan. The rated storage capacity of the project is 48,000kWh. The electro-chemical battery storage project uses lithium-ion battery storage technology. The project will be commissioned in 2025.

Which battery energy storage projects have been selected for 2024?

Battery energy storage projects in Japan have been selected through the Long-Term Decarbonisation Power Source Auction for 2024.

Why is energy storage important in Japan?

As Japan accelerates its transition toward a carbon-neutral future, the role of energy storage has become more critical than ever. The country has set ambitious goals to expand its renewable energy capacity, including wind and solar power, to reduce dependence on fossil fuels.

How big is Japan's energy storage capacity?

Global energy storage capacity was estimated to have reached 36,735MW by the end of 2022 and is forecasted to grow to 353,880MW by 2030. Japan had 1,671MW of capacity in 2022 and this is expected to rise to 10,074MW by 2030. Listed below are the five largest energy storage projects by capacity in Japan, according to GlobalData's power database.
